

CHANDAIL

NEEDLEWORK

A Note from Emily

Dear Stitchers,

I am writing you with some bitter-sweet news. Our family is moving to Crested Butte, Colorado in the Fall of 2012. We are extremely excited about our adventure and a bit nervous! After spending this past July there I really started to grow roots. However, this also means that I will no longer be in Houston to run Chandail Needlework.

My goal is to either sell the needle-point business (hint-hint), or continue running Chandail from Colorado in a smaller format. I LOVE finishing, so I will continue to offer fabulous pillows, ornaments, and anything I can think up with all of the fabulous trim that I have. I will also continue to offer monthly series so that I can continue stitching my creative heart out and offer them to you! Beyond that, I will have to determine if I have time to create stitch guides, etc.

Feel confident that any series offered currently will continue as planned without any interruption—that is my personal guarantee! We will also continue to offer our great Chandail service with a huge array of canvases and trunk shows.

The GREAT news is that I hope to offer a summer stitching retreat in Crested Butte! You may not know this but CB is the wildflower capital of Colorado—absolutely beautiful!

Jumbo Candy Canes by Melissa Shirley with stitch guides by Laurie Walden

Once again Laurie fell in love with another Christmas design from Melissa Shirley. This time it's oversized candy canes. Laurie's stitch guides are filled with ribbons, beads and crystals. Candy Canes are available in five different designs and are available for purchase individually. Prices range from $115 - $120 each. Each Candy Cane measures 12" in length. A few decorating ideas from Emily are to use these jumbo candy canes in a swag with ribbons over a doorway, hang off a banister wrapped with garland, or cluster on an oversized wreath.
